hi daniela,

please read out the following from me:

"I am delighted to hear that Comenius University has provided support to create a new Academic Research Centre for Autism in the Faculty of Medicine. The Director of the new centre, Professor Daniela Ostatnikova, and I have had a very successful collaboration via students from Comenius coming to the Autism Research Centre in Cambridge, and together we have advanced the understanding of the genetic and endocrine aspects of autism. I wish the new Centre success and hope collaborations between our two Universities will continue and expand, for mutual benefit and of course for the benefit of families with a relative with autism. I look forward to visiting the new Centre, and I extend my thanks to the Council of Comenius University for investing in this vitally important area of medical research."

happy new year!

simon
